About the Frank L. and Laura L. Smock Foundation

Laura and Frank Smock lived a "comfortable life" in Fort Wayne, Indiana, and were dedicated to their Presbyterian faith. When Frank died in 1937, he left Laura his modest estate.

In 1953, when Laura Smock was in her late 80's, her inheritance increased significantly. She was beyond the age that she could benefit from her new wealth and so she graciously and generously decided that others should be helped by her good fortune. Thus, the Smock Foundation was established upon her death in 1955.

Laura Smock's wish was to "help aged Presbyterians in the state of Indiana for such benevolent, charitable, religious, educational or any allied public purposes... that will promote the health, welfare and happiness of ailing or needy or crippled or blind." Although primarily concerned for the comfort of people of the Presbyterian faith in their declining years, she generously recognized the needs created by life's misfortunes among others as well.

Since 1955, the Frank L. and Laura L. Smock Foundation has helped countless needy Indiana Presbyterians. The foundation has grown in worth as well as in the scope of how its funds can help others.

Guidelines for grant requests

The Smock Foundation provides grants to Indiana Presbyterian Church USA (PCUSA) members and churches. Grants are given to individuals in need and to churches for improvement facilities, for Deacon funds, and for programs that will improve the lives of elderly Indiana Presbyterians, including senior adult ministry programs.
